

Author's Biography

Eureka F. Collins

Eureka F. Collins is a freelance writer, speaker, trainer and advisor of Biblical and Christian Studies. She recently authored her first book, titled Strong Winds Change Lives.

Eureka is a highly successful entrepreneur whose latest venture includes founder and director of Living to be With God Network, with a mission to “Provide Christian literature that gives God the glory, honor and praise.” Over the past twelve years, she has worked with thousands of individuals from all walks of life and all areas of corporate America, helping them to live a more effective and Christian life through literature.

Formerly a Computer Analyst, she left a high-technological field to pursue God’s call to Christian literature. Ms. Collins holds a B.S. degree in Business Administration, a M.S. degree in Training and Leadership and has completed Biblical studies at Liberty University. She is also currently working on the popular Living to be With God book series.

Eureka is married to Gregory and has one son.